1. What is your past Model UN experience?
-I have participated in six models of the United Nations in the Dominican Republic. Twice in the Security Council and once in a Crisis Committee
2. What do you think will cause the next major global conflict?
-I think that the next global conflict will be caused by the expansion of ISIS and how the International community is dealing with it, this combined with the lack of the resources and the sensitive nature of the area are all part of a recipe for disaster.
3. What is your favorite utopian future and why?
Sir Thomas More wrote a book titled: "Utopia, Book 2" this book described my favorite utopian future, the perfect organization of a state, the perfect balance in culture and love of learning, all of this added to a democracy-like form of government.
4. What is your favorite dystopian future and why?
The Giver, for me it was shocking to read this book at such a young age, but I have read it several times ever since. The fact that there is lack of feelings in this community is awful because even though I believe we must be objective in our lives, without any feelings nothing makes sense at all.
5. Is it easier to imagine the end of the world or the end of capitalism? Briefly imagine one of them.
The end of the world is much easier to imagine. The end of capitalism is almost impossible from where I see it, this economic system that has taken over most of the world is so deeply rooted into human nature, meaning survival of the fittest, that it is much easier to imagine that the world would have to end to see the fall of capitalism. It is much more likely that there is a political and social breakdown that leads to extinction by nuclear threats, than to see the world change from capitalism to another economic system.
6. Where will you be in 2050?
2050, is 30 years from now, if everything goes as planned I should have already graduated from medical school, and be already specialized in cardiothoracic surgery. Having that in mind, in 36 years I will probably be giving either lectures at medical school, or attending conferences to discuss the latest advances in modern medicine.
